

We Saw You

Scenes from out and about in The Ville

Who knew Dick Cheney was in town?

The first-ever Forecastle Music + Arts festival was held Saturday in Tyler Park.

The lineup for the free all-day festival included the bands Irina, Your Black Star, Red-Tailed Hawk, The Vixen Red, Chester, Fire the Saddle, The Middle Men and J.K. McKnight, and visual artists such as Matt Weir and Brad White. Organizations represented included the Sierra Club, Citizens Standing Against the War, the Kentucky Writers Coalition, Earthsave and Naked Journalism.

At top left, Trish Noe of Lexington and Mary Griffin of Louisville looked at Bart Herre's painting, "Bourgeoise Woman." Above, event organizer J.K. McKnight performed. At left, the Squallis Puppeteers made political statements. Below, a group from Terpichore Dance Company performed a hip hop dance to "NSYNC's "Dirty Pop."

photos by Brian Bohannon

