

The Courier-Journal

$1.75
$2, outlying areas

SUNDAY
JANUARY 27, 2008

METRO EDITION

LOUISVILLE, KENTUCKY

courier-journal.com

A GANNETT NEWSPAPER

USPS 564607

IN SPORTS

U OF L 67
ST. JOHN'S 57

Derrick Caracter's play helped spark the University of Louisville Cardinals to race by St. John's 67-57 yesterday.

KENTUCKY 78
S. CAROLINA 70

Wildcat Ramel Bradley, with 26 points and 10 rebounds, helped lead UK to a win over South Carolina.

DECISION 2008

Obama wins in landslide

SOUTH CAROLINA PRIMARY

District ready to unveil school assignment plans

Final decision expected by mid-May

By Chris Kenning
ckennin@courier-journal.com
The Courier-Journal

Civil-rights leaders want to make sure schools stay racially integrated. Parents want to keep school choice. And students want to stay where they are.

The stakes will be high tomorrow when officials with Jefferson County Public Schools make public their highly anticipated student-assignment proposals in the wake of the U.S. Supreme Court ruling rejecting the district's desegregation policy.

"This is something that's going to impact the entire community," said Raoul Cunningham, president of the Louisville NAACP. "We are being watched across the nation."

Among those watching are school districts that want to see how Jefferson County, which has been nationally recognized for its integration efforts, will move forward after the Supreme Court said it can no longer assign individual students to schools based on their race.

Determined to avoid resegregation, Jefferson County officials have spent months weighing options such

IF YOU GO

Superintendent Sheldon Berman will present new student-assignment options for Jefferson County Public Schools at 4 p.m. tomorrow at Van Hoose Education Center, 3332 Newburg Road.

The meeting is open to the public, but no public comment is allowed and no decisions will be made.

ON THE WEB

Go to www.courier-journal.com/desegregation to:

- Read complete coverage of the U.S. Supreme Court's desegregation ruling.
- Look up the racial makeup of Jefferson County Public Schools, and the makeup of surrounding neighborhoods.
- Check out a special report on the 30th anniversary of busing in Jefferson County.

See PLANS, A10, col. 1

Woman's lawsuit

METRO | B1 Fire destroys art studio, apartments

The Courier

METRO EDITION

LOUISVILLE, KENTUCKY

courier-journal.

IN SPORTS

U OF L

67

ST. JOHN'S

57

DECISION 2008

Obama w in landli

Late-night fire destroys apartments, art studios

Photos by David Harpe, Special to The Courier-Journal

Last night, a multiple-alarm fire consumed two LAVA House complex buildings on Shelby Parkway near Logan Street. An aluminum-sided warehouse with art studios and an adjacent two-story apartment building were destroyed.

One reported hurt at LAVA House

Water sprayed over firefighters at LAVA House, part of a mixed residential-industrial area near Shelby Park.

By James Bruggers

jbruggers@courier-journal.com
The Courier-Journal

Fire last night severely damaged an art studio complex in the Shelby Park area.

The multiple-alarm blaze, which was reported about 10:45 p.m., hit two buildings on Shelby Parkway near Logan Street.

Shortly after Louisville firefighters reached the scene, flames were shooting 50 to 75 feet in the air, and huge clouds of smoke were billowing higher than that.

At 11 p.m., at least three pumper trucks were pouring water on the fire.

A large portion of the building collapsed about 11:10. A car parked next to the building was covered in charred debris.

The buildings made up the LA-

The Courier-Journal

ON THE WEB

To see more photos, go to www.courier-journal.com.

See FIRE, B3, col. 1

Photos by David Harpe, Special to The Courier-Journal

Last night, a multiple-alarm fire consumed two IAVA House complex buildings on Shelby Parkway near Lower Street.

One reported hurt at LAVA House

Water sprayed over firefighters at LAVA House, part of a mixed residential-industrial area near Shelby Park.

By James Bruggers

jbruggers@courier-journal.com

The Courier-Journal

Fire last night severely damaged an art studio complex in the Shelby Park area.

The multiple-alarm blaze, which was reported about 10:45 p.m., hit two buildings on Shelby Parkway near Logan Street.

Shortly after Louisville firefighters reached the scene, flames were shooting 50 to 75 feet in the air, and huge clouds of smoke were billowing higher than that.

At 11 p.m., at least three pumper trucks were pouring water on the fire.

A large portion of the building collapsed about 11:10. A car parked next to the building was covered in charred debris.

The buildings made up the LA-

See FIRE, B3, col. 1

The Courier-Journal

ON THE WEB

To see more photos, go to www.courier-journal.com.

FIRE | Blaze destroys buildings in LAVA House complex

Continued from B1

VA House complex.

Aron Conaway, one of the founders of LAVA House, said the fire involved two buildings: an aluminum-sided warehouse with art studios and an adjacent two-story apartment building. He said he thought four or five people lived in the complex.

Conaway said he knew of one person who had been hurt.

By 11:45, no flames were visible, but the warehouse building was leveled. The other building appeared to be gutted, and its back half was gone.

Late last night, dozens of people stood by in the mixed residential and industrial neighborhood watching the firefighters.

Fire hoses stretched across the railroad tracks that run next to the buildings.

A neighbor, John Smith, said of the complex, "It's ain't nothing now."

He said he heard firetrucks, came outside and saw flames, and heard a fire official calling for reinforcements.

"It's a bad one," Smith said.

Conaway, who also lives nearby, said that over the years, LAVA House had been used for art shows and music shows.

"It's surreal," a stunned Conaway said. "I'm just kind of like waiting to wake up."

Reporter James Bruggers can be reached at (502) 582-4645.